

Understanding and Treating Trauma with Native Americans

March 23, 2018

Whether reaching out to Native communities through his many workshops & speaking engagements or pouring it all out on stage, in front of the camera, in the recording studio, or putting pen to paper, Dr. Darryl Tonemah's personality always shines through as a man with a creative spirit, a compassionate heart, and a passion for life and his many pursuits. A full-blooded Native American (Kiowa/Comanche/Tuscarora), Dr. Tonemah has a Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology and Cultural Studies from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, a masters degree in Community Counseling, and three bachelor degrees in Psychology, Sociology and Gerontology. He currently travels to indigenous communities around the world teaching behavioral methods of change, and health and wellness. Dr. Tonemah also sits on numerous state and national boards addressing disparities in education and health care among the Native Community; as well as the Board of Directors of the American Diabetes Association.

Event Location:

Volstorff Ballroom (located in South Dakota State University's Student Union)

Event Schedule:

9:00 AM to 12:00 PM – Historical, Sociological, and Biological Perspectives on Trauma

12:00 PM to 1:00 PM – Lunch Break

1:00 PM to 4:00 PM – The Four Horsemen of Trauma and Tools for Daily Living

Cost:

Professional Early Bird Fee (ends 3/1) - $85

Student Early Bird Fee (ends 3/1) - $20

After 3/1 Professional Registration - $120

After 3/1 Student Fee - $35

To ensure that you get the Early Bird fee, payment must be received by 3/1. Payment must be made in the form of cash, check, money order, or purchase order. We will not be able to process credit/debit cards .

6 NBCC Contact Hours

To register or learn more about the event please contact Kari Lena at kari.lena@jacks.sdstate.edu.

Sponsored By: South Dakota State University Counseling and Human Development and the Sigma Delta Sigma Chapter of Chi Sigma Iota

The Counseling and Human Resource Development program at South Dakota State University has been approved by NBCC as an Approved Continuing Education Provider, ACEP No. 4142. Programs that do not qualify for NBCC credit are clearly identified. The Counseling and Human Resource Department is solely responsible for all aspects of the programs.

